

The Worshipful Company of World Traders
Master Edwina Moreton Installation Dinner
Music
18 October 2018

Fellow World Traders and guests.

We are shortly going to hear a little music.

Now, as many of you know, one of the definitions of a “gentleman” is: someone who can play the bagpipes, but doesn’t.

All of you who were at the Members’ Dinner in January will know that, by that measure, the outgoing Master is no gentleman!

It therefore falls to me to raise the standards in the Company.

The definition of a Lady Master henceforth might be: someone who can play the saxophone, but doesn’t.

Some of you know that I took up the instrument several years ago. But you will be relieved to hear that the person this evening who will show what the saxophone can do is my delightful and talented, and very patient, teacher, Marek Tomaszewski. Marek is joined by his colleague, Ed Arm, on guitar. Please take it away, gentlemen.
